

Allowing consolidation of media sources into a few hands runs counter to the spirit of what made the United States a great country. When control of the media falls into a few hands, it is easy to get skewed, unbalanced reporting, or half-truths that help the special interests but not necessarily the citizens in general. Nazi Germany knew this, so do all of the Fundamentalist Muslim regimes around the world, which is why they consolidate and control the media completely in their country. A free and independent press is what helped found the ideals of this country, and a free and independent press is the only way to keep those freedoms.
